We are now over a third of the way through the Bible! Woot!

We have now come to the book of Proverbs. We will read most of it over the next few weeks, but we will move away from Proverbs after chapter 24 before returning to the end chapters attributed to the men of King Hezekiah later in our chronological study.

I decided that we will only take one Proverbs chapter each day. There is so much wisdom contained in these verses that I don't want us to feel rushed in reading through them. I hope you will take the time to meditate on these words and their application for your life.

Be warned, Sunday's reading is extremely long as the UCG reading plan goes into great depth on the introduction of this amazing book. Please plan accordingly. The other days in the week are very manageable. It's highly likely that next week I will not be able to get the reading program done. I will do my best, but I have a funeral on one day, a Deacon & Elders meeting on another, and another day of obligations. I'm also hoping to start a new sermon series on "Christian Boundaries" next Sabbath, which will likely consume a lot of my time. We will see. I hope you enjoy this first week in Proverbs.
